Pew 2020 Predictions

- A low-cost global network will be thriving and creating new opportunities in a “flattening” world.
- Humans will remain in charge of technology, even as more activity is automated and “smart agents” proliferate. However, a significant 42% of survey respondents were pessimistic about humans’ ability to control the technology in the future. This significant majority agreed that dangers and dependencies will grow beyond our ability to stay in charge of technology. This was one of the major surprises in the survey.
- Virtual reality will be a major productivity and also spawn new addictions.
- Tech “refuseniks” will live off the network by their choice to avoid information overload, while others will embrace technology-inspired change.
- People will wittingly and unwittingly share about themselves, gaining some benefits in the process even as they lose some privacy.
- English will be a universal language of global communications, but other languages will not be displaced. Indeed, many felt other languages such as Mandarin, would grow in prominence.

Heat Maps are created by tracking user eye movements and summing the records for user groups. Here, the eye movements of elementary school students were tracked and recorded resulting in a Heat Map that clearly shows the students focus on the navigation options in the top left, the main feature panel in the center of the page, and the search box in the center top. This actual webpage can be seen by clicking here.

The Wild Wild West: Buffalo Bill

Buffalo Bill was a cowboy (or cattle rancher) who worked on the plains of the western USA. Cowboys rounded up cattle and put them on trains heading for the east. Buffalo Bill earned his nickname by killing several thousand buffalo to provide food for railway workers. He became famous when he toured with his Wild West show all over the USA and Europe.

FYI

Linden Lab is temporarily postponing the release of 1.9.1. They will continue to release updated versions of 1.9.1 on the preview grid for testing. They will still be bringing the grid down for some hardware and server side code upgrades. These changes will occur between tomorrow from 6am to noon SLT.

Reading is virtually fundamental in SL

By KATT KONGO
Staff writer

While most Second Life residents are aware of the variety of ways in which SL is used, from educational classrooms to treatment of mental illnesses, most would be surprised to learn that SL is now being used by an institution most think of as conventional — a library.

To be more exact, the Alliance Library System (ALS) is currently providing select services to the residents of SL. Initial services have, so far, consisted of book discussions and programs, such as one held Friday on the topic of "Getting Along with IT staff for Librarians and Educators."

ALS, which is based in East Peoria, Ill., will team up with Online Programming for All Libraries (OPAL) and utilize the programs, currently offered online to librarians and libraries, within SL. The two entities eventually hope to offer a plethora of library services.

In a telephone interview, Kitty Pope, executive director for the ALS, said the goal of their programs within SL is to reach people who might not otherwise go to a library. In giving background information about the ALS, Pope said the organization provides services to 286 libraries and is partially funded by the state of Illinois.

She added that ALS is one of the most innovative organizations, technologically speaking, and their philosophy is to mine new technologies to spread the gospel of library usage. "Innovation equals risk, innovation equals growth," she stated.

Loni Bell, the ALS's director of innovation, read about SL in the blog of a librarian who was already a resident. She created an account, logged on with her avatar, Lorelei Junot, and saw a population of almost 200,000.

She found that SL had a few libraries, such as Wandering Yaffle's _blacklibrary, but thought that library services could be expanded. "Since there is web programming through OPAL, why not offer that in SL?" she said.

Librarians from all over the country are gathering in SL to assist in setting up the virtual library. In fact, Pope expected criticism from many library blogs, but instead has found those in the field to be immensely excited about the possibilities afforded by SL.

Bell concurred, saying, "The response has been enthusiastic. People are volunteering and doing a Go-Live is Almost Here!

July 18th, 2006

Tomorrow, July 19th, iBorrow will be live for users at the SunLine libraries, Tampa-Hillsborough, Lee County, Pinellas Park and the Polk County Library Cooperative libraries. We look forward to working with staff in these libraries as we make this transition. We will continue to work with SirsiDynix to migrate the other Alleycat participants over the coming weeks.

What is the Library Project?

Google Print makes offline information searchable. As part of this project, we're now working to index the book collections of several major research libraries and make this content searchable through Google Print alongside books provided by publishers through our Publisher Program.

What is the goal of Google Print for Libraries?

This project's aim is simple: make it easier to find relevant books. We hope to guide more users to books – specifically books they might not be able to find any other way – all while carefully respecting authors' and publishers' copyrights. Our ultimate goal is to work with publishers and libraries to create a comprehensive, searchable, virtual card catalog of all books in all languages that helps users discover new books and publishers find new readers.

What will library books in Google look like?

If you are in the United States and you search for Books and Culture by Hamilton Wright Mabie, for instance, you'll be able to page through as much of it as you like, because its 1896 copyright means it's now in the public domain in the United States. These public domain books look very similar to publisher-submitted books except you will be able to click through all the pages of the book.

A book such as the 1924 True Stories of Pioneer Life by Mary C. Moulton, on the other hand, may still be in copyright in the United States, and we treat it as such. So, when you preview it on Google Print, you'll only see snippets of text directly around your search term. This snippet view is designed to help users find the book in their search results and make a decision about whether to go find a physical copy of the book with just bibliographic information and a few short sentences around their search query.
